12 Secrets To More Restful Sleep

If you lie awake at night thinking about all the things you have to do, you're not alone. Polls show that a growing percentage of people are getting less than six hours of sleep and the number of people who get eight or more hours is dwindling. Here are the secrets to help you get a good night's rest:

Prepare your bedroom:

- Ø Create a sleep sanctuary by eliminating noises, TV, and computers.
- Ø Limit your bed to only two things – sleep and sex.
- Ø Indulge in some type of bedtime ritual. It can be a warm bath, light snack, or time on your favorite quiet hobby like reading.
- Ø Invest in a good bed. You are in it about 1/3 of your life and the cost of a good mattress is much cheaper than poor health.

Prepare your body:

- Ø Avoid foods containing tyramine in the evening. Some of those are bananas, chocolate, liver, avocado, cheese, beer, and wine.
- Ø Eat alkaline foods like apricots, figs, almonds, turnips, or spinach. They enhance sleep's anabolic process.
- Ø Avoid caffeine, nicotine, and limit alcohol before bedtime.
- Ø Exercise, but not within two hours of bedtime. Some people like to exercise in the early evening. But a morning routine will give you the energy to work all day. You'll then be ready to slow down to rest at night.
- Ø Use aromatherapy with herbs such as lavender or valerian.

Prepare your mind:

- Ø Try meditation. Focus your brain on a single thought (or nothing at all) as you listen to your body with eyes closed.
- Ø Unwind with deep breathing. Breathe in with your abdomen expanding. Hold for 3 seconds and release air slowly to expel as much air as possible. Practice for 5 minutes before retiring to sleep.
- Ø Change your expectations and empower your ability to sleep. If you've been struggling with sleep for some time, you may have attitudes that defeat you. Don't let your mind worry about how long it will take to get to sleep or how tired you might feel tomorrow. Expect to sleep well.

Word of the Month...

Studies have shown your income and wealth are directly related to the size and depth of your vocabulary. Here is this month's word, so you can impress your friends (and maybe even fatten your wallet!)

Querulous: (kwer-uh-luhs) adj

Meaning: Having the tendency to complain or whine

Sample Sentence: Mom took away my laptop computer just because of my querulous opinion about dinner.

Addicted To Overspending?

When an occasional budget-busting expenditure turns into devastating debt, it may be time to take drastic measures to get your money under control. Here are two tips to curb your urge to spend:

Beware Of Bargains: Many overspenders use the excuse of the discounted price as the reason for creating debt. When the cost of carrying that debt is calculated into the "bargain," most of the time those savings evaporate. This is true at the department store, warehouse stores and on Internet sites like eBay.

Replace Indulgences: The pleasure of "retail therapy" may be real for you. But you can find alternative methods of nurturing your soul. Indulge in things that satisfy at the soul level instead of the quick rush of a purchase. Visit a museum. Go to a festival. Get together with friends.

Quotes To Live By...

Education begins the gentleman, but reading, good company and reflection must finish him.

—John Locke

Contemplation seems to be about the only luxury that costs nothing.

—Dodie Smith

Tomorrow is a new day; begin it well and serenely and with too high a spirit to be encumbered with your old nonsense.

—Ralph Waldo Emerson

Who's Giving Drugs To Kids?

Recent studies reveal that many times drug use in kids begins at home, while under the care and guidance of parents.

Starting as young as 12, kids are more likely to get prescription or over-the-counter drugs and alcohol at home than to use "street" drugs. They get these household drugs in the medicine and liquor cabinets. Here's how to approach this situation if your child, or one of their friends, acts suspicious:

- Ø Know the facts. This isn't just an urban problem. Suburban kids are just as likely to abuse. Plus, the teenage brain is much more prone to addiction and susceptible to peer pressure.
- Ø Have the drug conversation with your kids. You can find good information for the discussion at www.theantidrug.com.
- Ø To be on the safe side. Consider locking up the liquor cabinet and keeping all prescription drugs in a lockbox. Ask your friends and family members to safeguard their prescription drugs and alcohol as well.
- Ø Properly dispose of old medicines. Don't just toss them in the waste can.

Smart Technology Tips

Do you need to access information on your home computer when you're not at home? You could carry your laptop with you everywhere, but here are two other convenient ways to access your files on the go:

- ✓ Get a smart phone or tablet, such as an iPad. These devices are for more than just fun and games. You'll love the immediate access to email, address books, photos, calendars and the Internet, not to mention thousands of apps (web applications). Depending on your budget, consider buying a refurbished version of one of these devices, and then upgrade to a new model after you learn the ropes.
- ✓ Back up your data. An online backup service protects you if your laptop gets stolen or lost. Install the software and your data will be backed up to the "cloud" (basically the Internet). Easily restore everything from music to spreadsheets for a flat annual fee. For a free backup service that makes it easy to share photos and documents with friends and family, try www.dropbox.com. You can also download dropbox to a mobile device. Or, check out www.carbonite.com.

Cruise Ship Scams

Avoid these frequently offered scams:

§ The prize cruise. You're a winner! But you need to provide a credit card or social security number to prove your identity.

§ The long-distance scam. To claim your cruise, you're told to call a 900 number or one with an area code of 876, 868, 809, 758, 784, 664, 473, 441, 284, or 246. Those codes are actually for foreign countries, and the charge may run $5.00 a minute or more. Guess what? There's no cruise, only a high phone bill.

Witty Word Play

- The thoughtless are rarely wordless.
- Patience is a virtue that carries a lot of "Wait."
- The best place to look for a helping hand is at the end of your own arm.
- The darkest hour is only 60 minutes long.

How To Find An Auto Mechanic That Won't Rip You Off

The best way to find any service provider, including an auto mechanic, is based on referrals from friends and family. But automobile breakdowns rarely happen at convenient times or places, and you may need to select from repair shops within a few miles. Look for these five things to find a good mechanic:

1. Certifications: Look for a plaque on the wall for ASE certification from the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence. Remember that not every mechanic in the garage will be certified for your particular type of repairs. If they have the ASE Blue Seal of Excellence it means that at least 75 percent of the techs have been certified and each area of service in the shop has someone certified in that area.
2. Length of time in business: Experience helps. Look for a shop that has been in the same location more than five years. If you see a shop, you can search for user reviews of their work at a site like www.yelp.com.
3. Billing Rate: If you can, talk to the owner of the garage. One of the questions to ask is whether they charge a "straight hourly rate" based on the actual time spent on the repair or "book rate" that can be higher.
4. Referrals and opinions from the web: If you have a smart phone, get other opinions by searching an online forum about your issue. A good place to start is at www.edmunds.com/forums. For another viewpoint, ask a mechanic from another auto shop who does not work on your type of vehicle. The shop specializing in European cars can probably tell you the best mechanic for a Japanese vehicle.
5. Getting the right thing fixed: Once you find a shop, don't be fooled into fixes you may not need. You can find tools for diagnosing symptoms and estimating repair costs at www.automd.com. You'll also find quick online advice at www.repairpal.com, which has a useful question and answer tool.

Driving Signs Of Aging

Usually after 60, most people begin to experience a few normal effects of aging that affect driving. It can be eyesight or reflexes, but often the aging driver doesn't notice the changes. Here are a few ways to spot trouble:

- § Friends and family suggest that you get your eyes checked.
- § Making wrong turns or getting lost in areas that you know.
- § Scratches and dents that you cannot explain.
- § People honking at you more often.
- § Almost hitting a pedestrian on the crosswalk.

If you have experienced any of these things, contact your doctor. A change of medication or a pair of glasses could save a life.

Real Estate Corner...

Q. My home has been on the market several months. What can I do to keep it from looking like a stale listing and get it sold?

A. You may know price can be the most important factor in getting a home sold, but there are other things that can give you a competitive advantage in the marketplace. Ask for a copy of my “28-Step Home Marketing Plan” for the complete list. Three critical steps are:

- Offer incentives: Mentioning in the listing description that you are willing to pay some of the closing costs, repairs or inspections can make a big difference in making your home attractive to buyers.
- Internet exposure: Today's buyers are searching for homes on real estate search websites like www.trulia.com, www.zillow.com, and www.realtor.com. It is critical that the listing is re-submitted to as many sites as possible if the price has changed.
- Fresh photos: This is particularly true if your old pictures reflect a different season. Photos from the spring are a red flag to homes in the fall.
